

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

First and foremost, I'd like to thank all of my clients for their dedication and hard work. Many of my clients have been with me since the beginning and have supported—and continue to support—my vision of health and fitness. This includes Donald and Mickey Mann, Dennis Weiss, David and Sandy Brokaw, the Dugan Family, the Hughes Family, Elizabeth Spellman, Sandra Stern, Carl Beverly, Sandie Wiesenthal, Evelyn Desser, Deborah Goldfarb, Deborah Koniak-Griffen and many others.

I'd like to give a special “thank you” to Rachel Katz, Bryan Arceo, Kennedy Meek, Teresa Conrad, Nick Schaeffer, Willy Rosenfeld, Ben Villers, Auston Ashworth, and Stevi Perry for being the best trainers I know.

Many professional and Olympic athletes have trusted me with their workout regimes, and I have always taken great pride in that. Actors, actresses, directors, and producers have hired me to give the characters they want portrayed a certain look that is vital to the success of their projects. Nobody wants to see a superhero that does not look perfect.

Next, I'd like to thank my family: My wife Jodi and two daughters Carli and Taylor for always encouraging and supporting me no matter how much time it takes to get my projects completed. Jodi once said to me, “Start one project and complete it; don't start several and get nothing done.” That one sentence has been the main mantra of my professional life.

I'd also like to thank BuzzFeed and other media entities, including The Today Show, Extra, and Entertainment Tonight. They've helped me get my message out to the world, and one them may be the reason you're holding this book in whatever form—print or digital—right now.

Finally, I'd like to thank the team who put this book together from conception, drafting, layout to publication. These include: Kimberly Richey (designer and photographer), Jim Schmaltz (editor), Steven Stiefel (co-writer and publishing coordinator), Michael Duran (front cover graphics), Carli Zimelman (recipe contributor), Syd Scrivano (cataloger & illustrator), Clint Gage (first-draft editor), Josh Dassa (first-draft reader), Kennedy Meek (photographer), Nick Sage (photographer), Taylor Zimelman (social media director), Ted Bear, for being my best running partner.

This book could not have been possible without the contribution of all these people.

- Steve Zim

Steve Zim is a celebrity trainer who has worked with many famous actors including some that have starred in your favorite superhero films. He's also trained YouTubers and supermodels in addition to his other clients.

Zim is the author of Hot Point Fitness, 6 Weeks To a Hollywood Body and 30 minute Celebrity Miracle Makeover. His programs and articles about him and his celebrity clients have been published in many of the top publications in the country. Articles have appeared in the New York Times, LA Times, Cosmopolitan, Shape, US Weekly, Muscle & Fitness, Men's Fitness and Men's Journal, among many others. Steve Zim was the on-air fitness expert for Weekend Today, and a regular contributor on Entertainment Tonight and Extra.

Superhero Nutrition promotes the unique nutritional key Zim has found to help everyone reduce bodyfat without following a diet of deprivation. Superhero Nutrition is a program you can follow for life and never go hungry.

As someone who's struggled her entire life sifting through all of the conflicting information on nutrition advice out there, I urge you to forget what you think you know and put your faith in Steve Zim. This plan didn't just change my body; it changed my understanding of and relationship with food.

— Gabbie Hanna

I began working with Steve Zim for a project on my YouTube channel to transform my body to look like that of a Victoria's Secret model in five weeks. Steve's Superhero Nutrition program is awesome. I love it. When Steve recommended that I only eat three meals a day, I thought he was crazy and that I'd be starving. But my hunger levels have decreased, and I don't stress eat as much. Honestly, I didn't even know I was binge eating. After only four weeks on the program, I don't recognize myself in the mirror. My arms are toned and my waist is smaller.

— Michelle Khare, @MichelleKhare

I wasn't into fitness until I saw Chris Evans' body in the Avenger movies. When I researched his workouts, I learned he had worked with Steve Zim. I contacted Steve and worked with him for five weeks. Steve's training knowledge was amazing, but I was surprised that his nutrition program was so easy to follow!

— Evan Ghang, actor/producer

